About The Tokyo Station Hotel:

The Tokyo Station Hotel opened in Tokyo Station in 1915 as a European-style hotel. Its imposing architecture and state-of-the-art facilities for the period attracted visitors from far and wide. The Hotel temporarily closed in 2006 to accommodate the preservation and restoration of the entire Tokyo Station Marunouchi Building.

After a complete remodeling that took nearly six and a half years, the hotel reopened in 2012. The hotel's 150 guestrooms and suites deftly balance the refined elegance of classic European décor with modern comfort and technology. Its unique ten restaurants and bars, fitness and spa facilities, and the state-of-the-art meeting rooms charmingly retained the vestige of the station building's rich heritage and significance.
